The GAZETTE has the largest circulation, with a single exception, of any weekly newspaper published in Bucks County.

BIRTHS.

—Lorenzo Hall is now in the office of the Columbia.

—The steamboat John A. Warner, commencing her trips to Sea Breeze to-day.

—Wm. Blackwood made and sold last week upwards of 300 quarts of ice cream.

—A number of new dwelling houses are in course of construction in Bristol.

—The bids for the school house in the second ward ranged from $9,475 to $12,550.

—The Baptist festival this evening and to-morrow evening should be well attended.

—Rev. Dr. Knox returned from the General Assembly at Pittsburgh, yesterday evening.

—The colored members of the A. M. E. Church took of having a strawberry festival next week.

—Mrs. Ellen Foley has purchased one of the new houses of Edwin Lawrence, on Franklin street.

—The mills of Bristol closed at noon to-day in order that the employees might observe Decoration Day.

—Near "The Saltatory Drainage of Houses and Towns," by George E. Warring Jr. Now in the Bristol Library.

—Strawberries and cream, ice cream, fruit cake and other refreshments at the Baptist festival, this Friday evening.

—A Trenton yacht upon opposite the point the other day. It was towed over to Bristol by the tug Lincoln, and set to rights.

—J. A. Martin, of Bristol, is en route for Dakota Territory, where he will be employed as foreman by a Government contractor.

—William A. Lavery, the effective temperance worker, will address the Newport Lavery Club on next Saturday evening.

—Wilson Randall, the carriage builder on Bath street, is constructing a handsome hearse for Joshua Townsend & Son, of Hallowell.

—William Wolff, lately employed in history mill at Thomas Hughes & Co., has removed to Virginia, and will engage in agricultural pursuits.

—The Street Committee of Borough Council have proposed to re-grade Pond street according to the plans of Civil Engineer, Van Harlingen.

—Joseph Harrison, who is employed at the Bristol & York factory, had one of his fingers caught in the machinery last Monday morning, and severely cut.

—The new reading room on Mill street above Nathan Tyler's clothing store, is well patronized. Any one can become a member by contributing ten cents per week towards its support.

—About forty of the Bristol Knights of Pythias visited their brethren in Morrisville last Tuesday night. They went up in wagons, had a pleasant trip, and returned about 2 o'clock in the morning.

—A package of collars, ties, etc., was abstracted from Edward Stockhouse's wagon a few evenings ago. It is not safe to leave small packages in wagons or carriages unless some one is left to guard them.

—The Liturgist says that Darley J. Smith has been relieved of his position as superintendent of the First-day school at Newtown, and is now in charge of the school at Philadelphia.

—The annual strawberry festival given by the young people of the Presbyterian Church has always proved to be very pleasant to all participants. The one this year will be held on the evening of June 2nd and 3rd, and will doubtless be fully equal to its predecessors.

—The proprietor of a cafe on Mill street, undertook to enlarge his boundaries one day this week, by building out a shed on the pavement, further than allowed by ordinance. Complaint was made, and the obstruction to travel promptly removed.

—There was an agreeable concert given by the members of the Bristol Orchestra and some of their friends at Washington Hall, on Wednesday evening of last week. The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity, and numbers were unable to gain admission. The performances were of all well received, and some of them with great favor.

—On last Friday, a young man named Wm. A. Rue, of the firm of Rue & Jackson, of Trenton, committed suicide by shooting himself with a pistol in his room. The ball passed through the heart, killing him instantly. Deputy Coroner Beam, of Philadelphia, held the inquest, and a verdict of temporary insanity was rendered. Mr. Rue was well known to many in this part of the county, and his general cheerful disposition and his busy life, would have caused him to be considered among the last ones who would seek to escape from the toil and trouble of this world.

—The first given in aid of the Bristol Library fund, on Friday and Saturday evenings of last week, at Washington Hall, was participated in by a large number of people. Those who had the affair in charge, worked with untiring industry in preparing for the event, and through the kindness of many, flowers, cakes, strawberries, etc., were contributed in profusion for the fund. The result of the two evenings' entertainment exceeded the expectations of the managers, and a considerable sum was added to the treasury of the Library Company.

—A special meeting of Council was held at John's pond on last Monday afternoon, to take into consideration the best method of draining that body of water. All the members were present, except Messrs. Harkins and Rue. Civil Engineer, Van Harlingen, presented his plans for the best method of overcoming the difficulty, and recommended the regrading of Pond street, which was unanimously adopted by Council. In some places the grade will be cut down several feet. The dirt removed will be dumped in the hole on the school house lot, and the estimated cost for the work is said to be about $800.

—The proposals for the new school house to be built at the corner of Washington and Pond streets, were opened on Tuesday last. There were eight bidders, six of whom were builders who reside in the borough, one from Camden, and one from Trenton, N. J. The lowest bid was $3,550, and was made by F. P. Critchton of Bristol. The house is to be a two-story stone building, the front on Washington street, and the side facing Pond street to be dressed after the manner of the Friends' Cedar street school house. Work will be commenced at an early day, and it is proposed to have it completed and ready for occupancy this fall.

—A serious accident occurred to John Murphy, one of the employees of the Livingston Mills, last Tuesday evening. A piece of goods had been placed in what is known as the "whizzer," a machine which makes about 1000 revolutions a minute. One end of the goods not being all the way in the machine, Murphy attempted to thrust it down with his hand, and the machine was in motion. The goods immediately wound around his arm, and his head and shoulders were driven into the machine. Murphy had been driven back both above and below the elbow, and suffered considerable bruising about the head. Dr. Groom was called, and gave such relief as was possible, and thinks that the patient will recover.

Opening of the Library.

The Bristol Library will be open for the use of subscribers, on Tuesday and Thursday of each week from three to five in the afternoon, and on Saturdays from seven to nine in the evening, commencing on the first of June. The purpose of establishing it has proceeded satisfactorily from the beginning, and the managers have reason to feel gratified with the success that has thus far attended their efforts. They have met with cheerful encouragement from those who appreciate the value of such an institution, and their most sanguine expectations have been more than realized in the results that have been accomplished. The progress of such an undertaking is necessarily slow, and it is by patient effort and the gradual fruition of time that a library is built up to fair and goodly proportions. The beginning that has been made is a small one, but it is good and full of promise. The number of volumes in the library at the start exceeds three hundred, and there is sufficient unexpended money to increase this to five hundred. Each year will necessarily add thereto, and in the near future we have reason to believe that Bristol will possess a library of ample dimensions as to command our pride and win our admiration. Let the subscribers avail themselves of its advantages, and embrace the opportunity to offer to employ their spare hours usefully, increase their power through the acquisition of knowledge, improve their minds and enhance the value of their lives. The selection of Washington Hall for a library room gives great satisfaction to those who are interested, as all recognize its eminent fitness for the purpose. We predict that it will be a favorite and popular place of resort during the afternoon and evening when it will be free for the use of the subscribers, and the opening on Saturday evening should be an occasion for the interchange of pleasant congratulations.

—Decorations Day, as a holiday, appears to become more popular with each succeeding year. The preparations in Bristol for its observance to-day exceed those of any previous occasion. Not only will the veterans of the Rebellion stroll down the city, but the graves of those who died that year upon the graves of other soldiers will take part in the ceremonies attendant to the occasion. The services will, therefore, be more impressive than heretofore. The parade arranged by the Capt. H. Clay Beatty Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will be participated in by the Fire Companies, civic societies and Sabbath Schools of Bristol. The line will form on Pond street, with the right turning on Mill, and will march down Mill to Radcliffe, up Radcliffe to the Catholic Church; thence down Radcliffe to Walnut, up Walnut, Cedar, to the Episcopal Cemetery, then through to the Methodist burying-ground, thence to Market street and thence to the graves of the soldiers. DAISY PICKING. — Daisy-picking in meadow grasses. They are now in bloom and the young ladies are busy picking them. They are now in bloom and the young ladies are busy picking them.

BY CHAS. HENRIETT. — There has been a new bond of friendship between me and my flowers of late. I have come to them as to a humble minstrel, and as I have learned better how to appreciate the beauties of the flowers, I have learned to appreciate the beauties of the flowers.

THE HOUSEKEEPER. — In taking care of the sick, be not in your dress and appearance. Wear a dress that will not rustle, and a soft shawl. Open and shut doors quietly, and avoid all extra noise, such as talking, opening drawers, rattling pans; never whisper, what is to be said, let it be in an audible tone. If cheerful, many patients are injured by anxious faces. Whatever you take to a patient, let it be made as attractive as possible. Cover the water with a clean napkin, and let the china, silver, and glass, be some of the "best." If the distance is long from kitchen to the sick room, cover the tea as well as the toast or coffee, so as to keep them hot when they reach the patient. If you have a cold, be sure it is a towel, and have a hot list, to put it in. A small bouquet on the water, places a sick person, and many a sick one is tempted to eat, by things being neatly and attractively brought to them.

For the Sick. — Arrow root Gruel. — One teaspoonful of arrow root, with a little cold water, until perfectly smooth; then add half a pint of boiling water, stirring it well, so as not to lump. In ten minutes, add salt, and sugar and indigestible, if the patient fancy it.

Indian Meal Gruel. — Made the same as the arrow root, but boiled half an hour. Milk can be added if preferred.

Soup Porridge for sick people. — Take a small broken cracker, pound it fine and put it in half a pint of cold milk; let it simmer for fifteen minutes. Beat an egg, yolk, add a little sugar and nutmeg, and a glass of wine. Pour this to the milk and let it come to a boil.

Raspberry Jam. — To every eight pints of raspberries, allow six pounds of sugar. Wash the fruit smooth, and add the sugar and let it stand an hour. Put it on the fire and boil slowly twenty minutes.

All fruits prepared early in the season, should be put in at night cases; they are not so likely to ferment.

Raspberries Vinegar. — To six quarts of raspberries, add a quart of cider vinegar, and let them stand closely covered for two days. Strain through a cloth. To every pint of juice allow a pound of sugar, and boil fifteen minutes. Bottle and it is fit for use. To use it, pour two tablespoonfuls of the syrup into a tumbler, and fill with ice or very cold water, and you will have a most delicious drink for hot weather or the sick room.

AN ARIZONA CORRESPONDENT. — George A. Dyer, the portrait painter, has just finished a portrait of a man, inhabiting a quaint old mansion built in the substantial, liberal style of a half century ago. The house as described in the Hartford Post, has but two stories, and an attic, a broad hall running from end to end, and a roomy parlor and chambers on either side, the kitchen being an addition in the rear. The house stands on a slight elevation, setting back a few yards from the highway, and is surrounded by the margin of Goshen's pond, a picturesque water which the house overlooks. The house is a fine specimen of the architecture of the summer time, and the porch is a most beautiful of trailing vines. Immediately in front of the house a neat flag-staff has been erected, and the porch is the scene of the "Dedication of Independence."
